THE PRIME PROJECT:
Partnership for Readiness in Math and English

A Collaboration of the University of Massachusetts Lowell Graduate School of Education and Departments of Mathematics and English with Lowell and Lawrence High Schools

What: The PRIME Project is a three year professional development program for English and Math High School teachers Focus is on reading and writing in the content areas and college readiness knowledge and skills.

Who: The PRIME Project is seeking 24 teachers
12 from the Lawrence High Schools (6 Math, 6 English)
12 from Lowell High School (6 Math, 6 English)

When: Summer Institutes 2010: 5 days
• June 21-23 and August 24-25 (8:30 AM-12:30 PM)
Academic year 2010-2011:
• 2 full release days and 8 after school 2 ½ hour workshops (Dates: TBD)

Where: Lowell and Lawrence High Schools

Requires: Attend all sessions
Develop and implement a curriculum unit with your students
Engage in online communication activities with faculty and colleagues
Participate in project evaluation

Benefits: $1200 honorarium for each year
Graduate credit option in Math, English or Education for each year
Teacher leadership opportunities in years 2 and 3
Professional learning community of UML and high school faculty
Preference to teachers who commit to 3 year participation

For more information, please contact:

Dr. Wendy Jack
WendyJack@lhs.lowell.k12.ma.us

Funded by the Massachusetts Department of Higher Education Improving Teacher Quality Grant Program