ACCEPTANCE OF CAMPUS SAFETY AND VIOLENCE PREVENTION TASK FORCE REPORT: SECURING OUR FUTURE: BEST PRACTICE RECOMMENDATIONS FOR CAMPUS SAFETY AND VIOLENCE PREVENTION

MOVED: The Board of Higher Education hereby accepts the Campus Safety and Violence Prevention Task Force report entitled, Securing Our Future: Best Practice Recommendations for Campus Safety and Violence Prevention, dated June 2016, as prepared by TSG Solutions, Inc.

The Board further directs the Commissioner to work with the institutions to coordinate efforts to implement the recommendations and secure resources.

Authority: M.G.L. c. 15A, section 6 and 9; Chapter 46 of the Acts of 2016 (7066-1000)
Contact: Constantia T. Papanikolaou, General Counsel
Background

During its September 2015 Retreat, the Board of Higher Education (Board) set as a priority for the 2015-2016 year providing focused attention to the issue of campus sexual violence. The Board’s FY16 commitment is in furtherance of and builds upon the Board’s October 2014 resolution which declared “zero tolerance” for sexual violence, including “stalking, dating violence, domestic violence, harassment and sexual assault, which can have devastating effects on individual victims, as well as serious negative consequences for colleges and universities.” BHE 15-01. The Board directed the Commissioner to coordinate a statewide effort among the public colleges and universities to strengthen campus policies around sexual assault prevention, and to review the BHE’s own guidelines on prevention and response.

In January 2016 the Commissioner established a Task Force on Campus Safety and Violence Prevention (CSVP Task Force) to assess existing policies and practices and make recommendations to help enhance public and private higher education institutions’ efforts to properly identify, prevent, and respond to campus violence, with a special focus on campus sexual violence. See Attachment A, Task Force Charge (January 2016). The Task Force membership included broad stakeholder representation, including but not limited to: Presidents of public and private higher education institutions; Title IX coordinators; campus police chiefs; student leaders; community based practitioners; and representatives from various state agencies, including the Attorney General’s Office, the Executive Office of Public Safety, the Massachusetts State Police, the Department of Public Health, and the Department of Mental Health. The Department secured additional funding in the FY16 budget to conduct this assessment and help coordinate the work of the Task Force. See Section 2 of Chapter 46 of the Acts of 2015 (7066-0000).1

With the assistance of a consultant, TSG Solutions, Inc., and guided by research on national best practice, the CSVP Task Force was charged with assessing the currency and relevancy of the BHE’s existing policy statement on campus safety, a 2008 report entitled Campus Violence and Prevention and Response: Best Practices for Massachusetts Higher Education. Drafted in the wake of the Virginia Tech shooting, the BHE’s 2008 report focused mainly on active shooters, and did not fully address campus sexual violence, including the risks of assaults of minors on campus. In addition, though a solid document for its time, the document was due to be evaluated and updated include most recent guidance on active shooter prevention and response and to assess its implementation at the campus level. The specific goals of the CSVP Task Force are outlined in the Commissioner’s charge. See Attachment A.

The CSVP Task Force has completed its work and is making recommendations for Board approval. To that end, during its June 2016 meeting the BHE will be presented with revised and updated recommendations on Campus Safety and Violence Prevention for approval. The CSVP Task Force report entitled, Securing Our Future: Best Practice Recommendations for Campus Safety and Violence Prevention, as prepared by TSG Solutions, Inc., is attached for Board review and consideration. See Attachment B. The BHE recommended action is to accept the report and direct the Commissioner to work with the institutions to coordinate efforts to implement the recommendations and secure necessary resources. Acceptance of the report will supersede the BHE’s existing 2008 Report on campus

1 Under the terms of the FY16 legislative earmark, the Department was directed to: “support assessment and coordination of a system-wide effort to address campus violence, with an emphasis on properly identifying, reporting and responding to sexual violence, coordinating and offering training initiatives and fostering a culture of inclusivity.”
safety and violence prevention. The work of the CSVP Task Force and the final BHE recommendations are also intended to inform pending state legislation on the issue of campus sexual violence. Finally, a statewide conference and training for both public and private higher education stakeholders on campus safety and violence prevention is being planned in partnership with the Executive Office of Public Safety and Security and the Attorney General’s Office. The target date for the statewide conference is September 28, 2016.
Charge

Through a coordinated effort, the Task Force will assess existing policies and practices on campus safety and violence prevention and, guided by research on national best practice, will make recommendations to help enhance public and private higher education institutions’ efforts to properly identify, prevent, and respond to campus violence, with a special focus on campus sexual violence and emerging technologies.

Context and Background

At its first meeting of the 2014-15 academic year, the Massachusetts Board of Higher Education declared a “zero tolerance” for sexual violence, including “stalking, dating violence, domestic violence, harassment and sexual assault, which can have devastating effects on individual victims, as well as serious negative consequences for colleges and universities.” The BHE directed the Commissioner of Higher Education to a coordinate statewide effort among the public colleges and universities to strengthen campus policies around sexual assault prevention, and to review the Board’s own guidelines on prevention and response.

The zero tolerance statement was a follow-up to a 2008 campus violence prevention initiative which included the establishment of a campus safety and violence prevention work group. With the assistance of a consultant, the work group conducted a study and prepared a report entitled, Campus Violence Prevention and Response: Best Practices for Massachusetts Higher Education (June 2008). The report included 27 specific recommendations organized in six categories: Early Detection and Prevention; Physical and Electronic Security; Campus Police Department; Mass Notification; Policies and Procedures; and Emergency Response.

The 2008 best practices document, though a solid document for its time, has its shortcomings. Drafted in the wake of the Virginia Tech shooting, it focuses almost exclusively on active shooter violence and does not fully address campus sexual violence, including the risks of assaults of minors on campus. Sexual assault, domestic violence, dating violence and stalking are serious problems, and young people are especially at risk. Nearly half of female survivors were raped before they were 18, and over one-quarter of male survivors were raped before they were 10. College students are particularly at risk: an estimated 1 in 5 women has been sexually assaulted while in college. This is an issue at campuses nation-wide, and the Commonwealth’s public and private colleges and universities are not excluded.
In addition, much has changed on our campuses and in the world at large since the 2008 best practices document was issued nearly seven years ago. It is time for the report to be evaluated and updated to include most recent guidance on active shooter prevention and response, to assess its implementation at the campus level, and to include recommendations specific to campus sexual violence.

Finally, the document must be reviewed to ensure inclusionary and culturally sensitive practices to help ensure that public higher education institutions are safe and supportive environments for all students, regardless of their race, ethnicity, disability, gender, sexual orientation or gender identity. A review of campus safety recommendations should include an analysis of cultural competency training for faculty and staff, and the development of system-wide response guidelines on hate crimes and incidents of bias against members of protected classes.

The Department of Higher Education secured additional funding in the FY2016 budget to conduct this assessment. See Section 2 of Chapter 46 of the Acts of 2015 (7066-0000).

Specific Goals and Outcomes

With the assistance of one or more consultants, review the Board of Higher Education’s 2008 “best practice” recommendations on campus safety and violence prevention with the goals of:

1) assessing the status of implementation at the Commonwealth’s 29 public higher education institutions;

2) evaluating the currency and relevancy of the recommendations as they relate to active shooter prevention and response, and amending the recommendations as necessary;

3) amending the recommendations to appropriately incorporate new guidance and best practice recommendations on identifying, preventing, reporting and responding to campus sexual violence, including protecting minors on campus;

4) ensuring that any final recommendations encourage cultural sensitivity by, among other things, using inclusive language and assessing response guidelines on hate crimes and incidents of bias against members of protected classes; and

5) offering any other recommendations, including recommendations on emerging technologies and budgetary recommendations, regarding how Massachusetts public and private higher education institutions can best improve their campus security and violence prevention efforts.

Next Steps/ Timeline

The Department posted a Request for Proposals (RFP) for consultant services to assist in this assessment, and RFP responses were due on January 7, 2016. A subgroup of the Task Force, consisting of volunteers, will help in the selection process. Following the selection of a consultant it is anticipated that the Task Force will meet at least monthly. Target milestones for the work of the Task Force are set forth below:
